G.O.P. NOMINEE FAVORS EXCESS PROFITS TAX REPEAL IN ADDRESS

Speaking Before Great Outpouring of Republican Men And Women From Richland And Crawford Counties, He Suggests More Equitable Method of Raising Revenue For National Government.

By J. BART CAMPBELL

MARION, July 31.—Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican nominee for president, made it clear today he favors the repeal of the excess profits tax and the substitution for it of a more equitable method of raising revenue for the national government.

In an address he delivered from the front porch of the Harding home to a great outpouring of Republican men and women of Richland and Crawford counties, Ohio, the senator declared "we ought to make wealth bear its full share of tax burdens, and we ever will."

"Having this thought in mind," the senator continued, "and also thinking of the excessive cost of living, I doubt if the excess profits tax for war accomplishes the end we seek in peace, though we do not disagree as to the worthy intent."

"Its operations have been disappointing, its costs multiplied and pyramided, and righteous changes and modifications ought to be sought at an early day. I would gladly recommend a change, but I am not yet prepared to suggest an equitable substitute, though I should have no hesitancy in asking congress to seek the earliest possible solution."

"We must not paralyze American production by taxation at home or destructive competition from abroad, because our mutual interest in productivity had made us what we are."

MARION, July 31.—The blare of brass bands and the cheers of marching clubs resounded through Marion today as between 2,000 and 3,000 men and women from Richland and Crawford counties, Ohio, made their way to the home of Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican nominee for president.

From the front porch of the Harding residence the senator addressed those who came here from the two counties by train, trolley and auto to greet him.

The old-fashioned horse and buggy brought its quota, too, while two aeroplanes, one of them piloted by a woman, added to the growing stream of conveyances bearing the senator's auditors.

Mrs. Gordon A. Farrow, vice president of the Aero club of Mansfield, one of Richland county's industrial centers, was the woman who piloted one of the aircraft as the custodian of a message she dropped at Mrs. Harding's feet.

The message was one addressed to Mrs. Harding by the Republican women of Richland county, many of whom came here with their men folk to attend the meeting at the Harding house.

From Mrs. Farrow's and the other plane messages of good will and pledges of support descended upon Senator Harding as he stood on his front porch and welcomed those who

LENINE ARMY ROLLING BACK POLISH TROOPS DESPITE TRUCE

Advancing Russians In Poland Reach Fortress of Brest-Litovsk.

DISPATCH FROM MOSCOW

Occupy Two Towns East of Warsaw; Poles Flung Back.

LONDON, July 31.—The advancing Russian army in Poland has reached the fortress of Brest-Litovsk, said a soviet war office communique wireless from Moscow today and picked up here.

The communique, which was timed Moscow Saturday morning, shows that the red army is rolling back the Poles despite the armistice. The text follows:

"We have occupied Bielsk (110 miles northeast of Warsaw).

"In the direction of Belsk (100 miles northeast of Warsaw) we have forced the Narva river after fierce fighting.

"The Russians have occupied Prusany (140 miles east of Warsaw). Our energetic advance has carried our troops to Brest-Litovsk.

"In the direction of Kovel we have flung back the Poles from the Stockhod river."

LONDON, July 31.—The Polish armistice envoys left Warsaw late Friday for Baranovitchi and expected to meet the soviet delegates between 8 and 9 o'clock and formally exchange introductions, said a dispatch from the Polish capital today. Active armistice negotiations were to begin today, but some doubt has been cast on the outcome by reports that officers of the old czarist regime in the red army were refusing to obey orders from Moscow.

A wireless dispatch received here at 10 o'clock reported that the Russians had re-opened their drive north of Warsaw and had seized Lomza. Lomza is only 75 miles northeast of the Polish capital and is but 20 miles from the German frontier.

Members of the Polish armistice delegation expressed the hope when they left Warsaw that the soviet's terms would be such that they could be accepted without lengthy negotiations so that the news could be flashed to the world that fighting had at East Liverpool people planning to join the Columbiana county delegation to Marion Thursday, August 12, must make reservations with Ben L. Bennett, secretary of the East Liverpool Republican Central committee, before noon, Tuesday, it was announced Saturday.

The size of the county representation must be definitely known before transportation facilities can be arranged with the railroad, Secretary Bennett stated. It is expected that 150 East Liverpool residents will make the trip. Special excursion rates will be granted by the railroad.

The exact routing of the special train to Senator Warren G. Harding's home city has not been arranged, Mr. Bennett said. The train will likely go over the Fort Wayne from East Palestine or to Panhandle from Steubenville. The trip will be made in a day.

SAM T. LOFTIS, RICH DIAMOND DEALER, DEAD

Chicagoan Meets Death Under Mysterious Circumstances.

MAN AND WOMAN HELD
Preliminary Examination Shows Clubman Died of Concussion of the Brain.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Samuel T. A. Loftis, famous Chicago diamond merchant and long a conspicuous figure in the city's night life, is dead today and the police are trying to unravel the mysterious chain of circumstances that led up to his death.

Roy M. Shayne, wealthy son of a former State street merchant and his pretty fiancée, Ruth Woods, are held by the police until they can determine whether Loftis met his death from natural causes or was killed. Both were in the diamond merchant's luxurious apartment on the North Side when he died.

A preliminary examination by the coroner showed that Loftis died from concussion of the brain. There were contusions near the temples, but otherwise the body bore no marks of violence.

Miss Woods bears marks of disfigurement. She told the police that the wealthy clubman invited her to his apartment early yesterday afternoon, became intoxicated and that she had to fight him all over the apartment. She finally telephoned Shayne for help. He arrived about 8 o'clock last night.

According to Shayne's story Loftis himself admitted him to the apartment. Within a few minutes after his arrival Shayne told the police, Loftis suddenly keeled over and died. Loftis was intoxicated and clad in his pajamas and there were two empty whiskey bottles from Loftis' extensive private stock lying broken on the floor.

The police found the dining room table set for a dinner for two. The dinner had not been served.

MURDER VERDICT IN BROOKE DEATH PROBE

DUBLIN, July 31.—"Murdered at the hands of persons unknown," was the verdict returned today by a coroner's jury that conducted an inquest over Frank Brooke, British government official who was assassinated yesterday. Traffic Manager Cotton of the Dublin and Southwestern railway testified that after the raiders had left the office where the shooting took place, one returned and fired two bullets into the already lifeless body of Brooke.

FEW VOTERS ENROLL FOR COUNTY PRIMARIES

Comparatively few voters qualified Friday and Saturday for the August primaries, according to an unofficial survey of the 18 registration polls Saturday afternoon. A majority of the visitors to the polls were voters seeking transfers to other precincts.

The registration polls will close at 10 o'clock Saturday night. Registrars will be at their respective posts Monday evening, August 9, from 6 to 8 o'clock to honor transfers.

TWO BLOWN TO ATOMS IN BIG POWDER BLAST

Two Are Killed In Explosion At Quaker Falls Plant.

SEVERAL ARE INJURED
Detonation Heard for Many Miles; Windows In Plant Are Broken.

LOWELLVILLE, O., July 31.—Two unidentified men, believed to be foreigners were blown to atoms and several others more or less seriously injured in an explosion at the Quaker Falls plant of the Grasselli Powder company, two miles east of her this morning.

The detonation was plainly heard miles away and broke every window in the plant. Fragments of human flesh were taken to the morgue here.

This plant is a subsidiary of the Grasselli Chemical company of Cleveland and has been the scene of several explosions in the past.

COX'S MANAGER REPLIES TO HARDING CHALLENGE

WASHINGTON, July 31.—To Senator Warren G. Harding's peppy challenge of Governor James M. Cox's position on the league of nations, and to the senator's charge that the governor's position is vague, Chairman George White of the Democratic national committee, and manager of Governor Cox's campaign today made response in kind.

"I don't propose to enter into a newspaper controversy with Senator Harding, the Republican nominee," Chairman White said, "but I would like to ask the senator one question: On the league of nations issue does he side with former President William H. Taft or with Senator Hiram W. Johnson? Which one represents Senator Harding's views, Johnson or Taft?"

ALL 'RUN AWAY' COAL MINERS ARE ORDERED BACK TO WORK

Telegraphic Instructions Are Issued By President Of Union.

NEEDS WILSON DEMAND

Officials At Washington are Optimistic Regarding Situation.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 31.—Telegraphic orders to every local union, instructing 'run away' miners to return to work in accordance with President Wilson's demand, were sent out today by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Lewis' order, it is believed, paves the way for rapid settlement of the strike crisis.

The telegram, after quoting President Wilson's message to the mine workers in full, says:

WASHINGTON, July 31.—President Wilson having appealed to the striking coal miners to return to work, is today awaiting action upon his appeal before the government proceeds further in the coal crisis.

Officials here are extremely optimistic today because John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, has stated that he will order striking miners back to work, and if he succeeds the present crisis can be quickly passed.

The president stands ready to call the wage scale committee of the miners and the operators to Washington for a conference immediately after he learns that the striking miners are back at work. It was stated at the white house today. Little lost time is expected, for the president had previously communicated with both the miners and the operators, and promised the miners he will see that negotiations for a settlement are not delayed once the men are back at work.

According to officials of the interstate commerce commission, the movement of coal is now encouraging and the existing shortage in the northwest and New England can be wiped out if labor difficulties do not interfere.

Coal operators, under the leadership of D. B. Wentz, of the National Coal association, have effected an arrangement to prevent speculation in coal and to maintain level prices during the present scale.

25 DELEGATES TO LABOR MEET

District Non-Partisan League to Be Formed At Steubenville.

More than 25 representatives of East Liverpool labor organizations will leave on the 1:10 o'clock car Sunday afternoon over the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction lines for Steubenville, where they will attend a district labor rally in the Knights of Columbus hall.

Fred Bueche of Steubenville, an official of the Jefferson County Trades & Labor Assembly, will likely preside at the meeting. Formation of a district non-partisan political league will be consummated at the meeting. More than 250 labor delegates from the five counties in the district will attend the meet.

The proposed non-partisan league would unite labor advocates of the district in the fight to safeguard organized labor's interests in approaching elections. It will be formed along lines of the East Liverpool and the Columbiana County Labor leagues. The policy of these labor leagues will be to make known the labor records of all candidates, it was announced Saturday.

POTTERY NEWS

KNOWLES WILL ERECT POTTERY

East Liverpool Plans to Construct Plant in California.

BY M. K. ZIMMERMAN

Harold H. Knowles, who has been active in the formation of the Homer Knowles Pottery Co., which was recently chartered under Delaware laws with a capital stock of $750,000 will leave for San Diego, Calif., with his family August 18. It is the intent of this new concern to erect a nine-kiln pottery in California, but whether it will be built at Long Beach or Oakland has not been determined.

"We have received some very excellent propositions from several places in California, each of which is attractive," said Mr. Knowles. "It will not be very long after we arrive on the coast before we will determine upon a location."

Mr. Knowles has sold his property and his household effects, and has already forwarded some personal effects to the coast.

"We have been receiving letters almost daily, inquiring about our output, and I can say that we'll have no difficulty in finding a market," said Mr. Knowles. "One concern has been very active in its desire to take over our entire output, but we are not interested in a proposition of this character. This thing of putting all your eggs in one basket does not appeal to us at all."

Tentative plans for the plant have been prepared. Prices on machinery have been obtained from this and other markets.

Use Enlarged Decorating Space

The Standard Pottery Co. is now using its increased decorating shop space. The decorating kiln capacity of the plant is being augmented so that greater care can be given to the business which was formerly handled by the company when it operated its No. 2 plant.

Suggest Golf Match

Eastern pottery salesmen and jobbers, export dealers and export salesmen have been quite active in the game of golf for some years, and they know of the high calibre of the golfers in the East Liverpool pottery trade. What's wrong with having a match game being arranged between the golfers in the local pottery trade and those identified with the business in the New York district.

Be it remembered that the East Liverpool pottery trade has among its members, golfers of no mean ability. Some of these players have given several of the most widely advertised golfers in the country a very close run for their money, and even if they did not carry off high honors it was nothing to their discredit.

Should the golfers in the eastern trade find it agreeable to entertain the East Liverpool pottery golfers the latter would immediately arrange to entertain the former in this district.

Such a match might be arranged this fall. The players would have a very pleasant holiday and at the same time create a very happy situation, that could be continued from year to year.

Why not now?

To Resume Wage Conference

Discussions will continue Friday, August 6, between the Labor committee of the United States Pottery Association and the conference committee of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters relative to the reopening of the present wage scale. Two conferences have already been held by these committees.

Salesmen do Less Traveling

During the last two years domestic pottery salesmen have done less traveling and business soliciting than ever before. Instead of salesmen seeking new business, buyers have been flocking into the market seeking merchandise. This year salesmen have not been on the road seeking business although some of them have made trips over their different territories, without samples and for the sole purpose of keeping in touch with the trade.

Suffers Poultry Loss

George McNicol, manager of the decorating department of the Pottery Co. Operative Co., a lover of poultry, recently lost 69 of his flock in one night. "Something got 'em," said Mr. McNicol. He had planned to have a large flock of pullets for winter laying and the stock was coming along fine until the "something" got into his poultry house and played havoc. Others living in the vicinity of Mr. McNicol's home on the Lincoln Highway have reported similar losses.

TWO POLICEMEN ARE AMBUSHED IN TIPPERARY

DUBLIN, July 31.—Two policemen were wounded, one fatally, when a small detachment was ambushed by civilians near Pendys Cross, in Tipperary, early today.

Arthur Griffith, active head of the Sinn Fein in the absence of E. De Valera, declared that no peace overtures have been received by Dail Eireann (Republican parliament), despite press reports to that effect.

"If the British government makes overtures for peace, they will be dealt with in proper manner," said Griffith.

RAISE $56,722 FOR HOSPITAL

Salem Closed Two-Day Drive With Luncheon on Friday.

In a city-wide two-day financial drive which closed with a luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce rooms Friday night, the city of Salem raised $56,722.10 for the Salem City Hospital, Community House and Salem Health League.

A goal of $40,000—$25,000 for the hospital, $10,000 for the community house and $5,000 for the health league—was oversubscribed by nearly $7,000. W. H. Mullins, head of the Salem Body Corporation of Salem, added $10,000 to the fund in keeping with a promise made at the outset of the drive that he would give that amount if the city's quota was realized.

East Palestine will launch a two-day campaign Monday to raise $15,000 for the Salem hospital. Lisbon, Leontia, Columbiana and other nearby towns contributed toward the hospital fund.

G. O. P. NOMINEE

E. B. Cappeller, publisher of the Mansfield News, in an introductory speech that preceded Senator Harding's address, said:

"Senator Harding, to me has been delegated today the pleasant duty of formally extending to you greetings from the Republicans of Richland county. Richland county approves without qualification the selection made at the Chicago convention and approaches the national campaign with every confidence of your election."

"As Republicans we are here today in large numbers from your neighboring county and we are able to say to you that in this visiting delegation there are many Democrats who intend to support you at the polls and that we have left behind, also, hundreds of other Richland county Democrats whose votes you will likewise receive."

"We are here today not only as Republicans interested in your candidacy but as friends, also, and neighbors. It was Richland county on the one side and Crawford county on the other, as you will recall, that were the first seriously impressed with your fitness for the United States senate and having long since demonstrated that its analysis was correct, it is happy also to have been among those who from the first too advocated your selection as the logical candidate for the office of president of the republic."

"As neighbors we have watched with satisfaction the developments of the republic's confidence in you. We know it is not misplaced and now we are profoundly sure that when the reins of government shall have been given to you, the American people will be served wisely and well."

"In Richland county we are impressed with your constant sincerity of purpose. As intimate neighbors we know that you have never placed selfish personal ambitions above duty to your state or nation. But there are strange to have it said, but there are some among us in Richland county who are of the opinion that one of the most impressive speeches you ever made was to a handful of people in Johnsville, near the place of your birth in Morrow county, early one beautiful morning when you were the candidate for the nomination of United States senator: In the little grove of the village square, standing among those who had known you from boyhood, you asked their support at the primary 'only if they sincerely felt you were best qualified to render to them if elected a conscientious and intelligent service.'"

"The statement was typical of your entire public life. It rang true and standing with uplifted hands, looking straight into the eyes of old associates and friends there could be no doubt of your sincerity."

"At Chicago, Senator Harding, the boys and girls, representing the rank and file of the Republican party, nominated you for the great office of president. In November, the boys and girls themselves, making up the great rank and file of the voters of this nation are going to elect you. They are going to elect you because they recognize in you one who will best safeguard our national rights, as one who will protect our American industries and afford American labor ample and profitable employment, as one who will give us an American merchant marine, as one who will influence a comprehensive and economical administration of our public affairs and as one above all else who understands our national needs; as one who rose himself after close personal contact with the common people and who understands at first hand their ambitions and hopes. Richland county asks no greater privilege than serving as citizens only in the world's grandest republic under such safe guidance as you can give."

Five bands and a glee club kept the streets of Marion astir during the morning hours preceding the time for the meeting at the Harding residence. Flags and bunting fluttered everywhere and in many windows lithographs bearing the likeness of the Republican nominee and the inscription, Harding for President, were much in evidence.

Marion took on a gala aspect reminiscent of the great gathering which so completely transformed it on the occasion of Senator Harding's delivery recently of his speech of acceptance.

It was another great day in Marion's history, and marked the real beginning, it was said, of the front porch campaign Senator Harding is to wage in earnest here from now on irrespective of whatever mass meetings he may decide to address later on in other parts of the country.

COX TO KEEP 'CARD IN HOLE' ON ACCEPTANCE

Democratic Nominee to Withhold Portion of Speech Until Aug 7.

ADDRESS ALMOST READY

Governor Plans "Surprise" At Notification Ceremony At Dayton.

BY HARRY L. RODGERS

DAYTON, July 31.—Elated with the success of the home-coming demonstration in his honor yesterday, Governor Cox today entered upon the final lap of work upon his speech of acceptance, and was positive that the finishing touches would be given before 6 o'clock tonight.

The governor expected to give the final word, "print off," to the press foreman of his newspaper, the Dayton "News," just before dinner time, which means the damp copies from the press will be turned over to the press associations before 7 o'clock tonight for mailing to newspapers throughout the country.

One portion of the governor's speech of acceptance, however, is being withheld. It is the "surprise" which is awaited with expectant interest by thousands throughout the United States. For weeks, it has been rumored that the governor, with a true sense of publicity values, would "keep a card in the hole" until the last moment, and would play this card at a time when it could do the utmost good for his cause.

This rumor was given additional confirmation today when the governor reiterated that the most important part of his speech, to be delivered on official notification day, August 7, would not be released to the newspapers until the morning of delivery.

Just what this particular portion of the speech will deal with has not been intimated even remotely, but it is expected to form the real keynote of the governor's chief campaign utterance.

That it will not deal with the prohibition question is taken for granted, in view of the governor's statement that nothing in his forthcoming address could be interpreted as "intended as a reply to the telegram from Richmond Pearson Hobson," inquiring as to Governor Cox's stand on enforcement of the Volstead act.

last came to an end on the battle front.

WARSAW, July 31.—The Polish cabinet and the Anglo-French mission were in conference throughout the night preparing measures to be taken in event the Russians refuse to sign the armistice protocol.

The press announces that extreme steps are contemplated.

LONDON, July 31.—Although the Polish armistice envoys are reported to have crossed the Russo-Polish lines last night and active negotiations for a truce were to begin this morning, official dispatches to the British government indicated that the Russian soviet troops were pressing their attacks with violence along the entire Polish frontier.

The Russians are reported to have taken Lomza, 75 miles northeast of Warsaw. If it is confirmed this seizure would constitute a direct attack upon Polish territorial integrity. The allies have already warned soviet Russia of the serious consequences of invading the Polish territory inside the demarcation line.

Up to noon the foreign office and the war office had received no official news of the opening of the actual armistice negotiations between the Polish and Russian delegates either at Baranovitchi or Brest-Litovsk.

A note from the Italian government regarding the Russian situation is on the way to London. It is understood that Italy has pledged herself to conform with the Anglo-French decision on the conditions Russia must accept to enter a general parity at London.

CLUBS, BRICKS USED IN FIGHT

Teamster and Switch Foreman Clash Over Ownership of Lumber.

Clubs and bricks figured prominently in an encounter on the Horn Switch, near Dresden avenue, shortly after 9 o'clock Saturday morning, which terminated in the arrest of C. C. Wells, driver for the D. E. McNicol Pottery company and Louis Jannozzo, switch foreman for the Pennsylvania railroad company.

Wells and Jannozzo disagreed over the ownership of a pile of lumber. When mere words failed to carry their meaning, the two resorted to sterner means to win their point. Wells wielded a brick with disastrous effect and Jannozzo brought a hefty club into play.

In a bloody condition, the two men were arrested by Patrolman Norman McFarland. They posted bond for their appearance before Mayor J. S. Wilson Sunday afternoon.

CANTON, July 31.—Mrs. Anna Sprunk of West Brookfield, 10 miles from here, believes that the woman whose mutilated body was found in a trunk in New York some time ago may have been her daughter, Mrs. Laura Vandecar, whose last known residence was 2415 Bridge street, Cleveland, O.

A fear that it might be her daughter's body caused Mrs. Sprunk to wire Police Chief Caldwell of Cleveland asking if the body had a brown mark on the face under the right eye.

Upon receiving an affirmative answer today Mrs. Sprunk made immediate preparations to leave for Detroit in an effort to identify the corpse, which, from pictures published in the papers, she believes to be her daughter.

CARROLLTON TO EAST LIVERPOOL ROAD ASSURED

Decision Reached At Public Hearing At Lisbon.

ARGUMENTS ARE HEARD

No Opposition to Wellsville-Highlandtown-Salineville Road Improvement.

BY M. K. ZIMMERMAN

LISBON, July 31.—Carrollton and East Liverpool will be joined by an improved highway within the next few years as a result of the State Highway Department conducting a hearing here Friday. Deputy State Highway Commissioner Charles Ash heard arguments favoring the improvement of the Wellsville-Highlandtown-Salineville road. No voice was raised in opposition to this proposed improvement. The completion of the road will open an extensive farming community which is now closed to an improved highway.

Carroll county is interested in this new route as the county commissioners of Carroll plan to build up to the Carroll-Columbiana county line.

When no opposition was presented to the improvement of this road, Mr. Ash closed the hearing which was held in Court Room No. 2 where there was some real fire works.

Personalities were injected into the hearing, and the four women who were there as boosters for the Sprucevale route for the East Liverpool-Youngstown road rather enjoyed the novelty.

When this road hearing was taken up by Mr. Ash, he announced that he would first hear from those who favored the changing of the route from the Sprucevale road to the "Bell School" route. He made it clear, however, that he had made a trip over both routes and that it was his candid opinion that "it looks like an engineering problem solely, and over the route where best grades are obtainable."

Attorney Jason H. Brooks of East Liverpool who represented interests favorable to the Bell School route, presented a lengthy argument in behalf of that road. "We in East Liverpool desire the very best road that can be built from every point of view," said Mr. Brooks. "There are only three county roads we can ever hope to be interested in—the Lincoln Highway, the Wellsville-Salineville road and the East Liverpool-Youngstown road."

He then called attention to the report of County Engineer Herman C. Armstrong that a seven and one-half percent grade was the heaviest on the Bell School route, while on the Sprucevale route the grade soared to nine and eight-tenths percent. It was also explained that there was only a difference of 60 feet in the length of the two routes, and this was in favor of the Bell School road, and that the latter road would cost the tax payers $40,000 less to build than the Sprucevale road.

"That's a very good presentation," commented Mr. Ash as Mr. Brooks retired.

Immediately James Cope, aged 78 years, declared that "we have the only route. We don't understand this to be a Sunday school road or a road for visitors. We have a trade road and with a grade all the way from East Liverpool to the north of from four and one-half to five percent."

Here Attorney W. H. Spence, who had been retained to speak in favor of the California or "Cope Hollow" route argued in behalf of the Cope road.

Attorney W. S. Foulks of East Liverpool got into the argument and spoke in favor of the Sprucevale road. It was explained to Mr. Foulks that the "opposition" to the change of the Sprucevale route would be later given an opportunity to be heard.

Again Mr. Ash advised that the proposition would be considered wholly from an engineering standpoint.

Real life was injected into the hearing by William Green, a merchant of Rogers. He wanted to know "why Pete Milliron of East Liverpool always used the Sprucevale road, and a voice advised him that "because there was none other at present."

"The county commissioners are hounded to death for roads," continued Mr. Green. "Build a road. You won't please all the people after any road is built, but build a road and build it quick."

"That's the right kind of sentiment" came from Mr. Ash.

When this hearing closed the question of improving the present traveled road in Wayne township from Lisbon to Salineville was opened. It has been proposed to put a new road through the center of the township. Surveys of both roads have been made.

Arguments for the improvement of the present highway waxed warm. Sentiment also developed for construction of a road over a new route.

"I'll go over both routes before I reach any conclusion," said Mr. Ash as he closed the hearing.

Charles Patterson, who lead the argument for the improvement of the present traveled road, and which extends past his farm, said that there was only one mile of improved highway in Wayne township out of 50 miles of roadway.

Both court rooms were crowded for the hearings on these three roads. Many were compelled to stand.

County Commissioners Patrick McNeil, John H. H. Chiffle and John F. Kerr of Salineville occupied seats with Mr. Ash. A stenographic report of the hearing was made.

Mr. Ash left for Lima where he had a road hearing scheduled for Saturday.

KNOWLES WILL ERECT POTTERY

East Liverpool Plans to Construct Plant In California.

BY M. K. ZIMMERMAN

Harold H. Knowles, who has been active in the formation of the Homer Knowles Pottery Co., which was recently chartered under Delaware laws with a capital stock of $750,000 will leave for San Diego, Calif., with his family August 18. It is the intent of this new concern to erect a nine-kiln pottery in California, but whether it will be built at Long Beach or Oakland has not been determined.

"We have received some very excellent propositions from several places in California, each of which is attractive," said Mr. Knowles. "It will not be very long after we arrive on the coast before we will determine upon a location."

Mr. Knowles has sold his property and his household effects, and has already forwarded some personal effects to the coast.

"We have been receiving letters almost daily, inquiring about our output, and I can say that we'll have no difficulty in finding a market," said Mr. Knowles. "One concern has been very active in its desire to take our entire output, but we are not interested in a proposition of this character. This thing of putting all your eggs in one basket does not appeal to us at all."

Tentative plans for the plant have been prepared. Prices on machinery have been obtained from this and other markets.

Use Enlarged Decorating Space

The Standard Pottery Co. is now using its increased decorating shop space. The decorating kiln capacity of the plant is being augmented so that greater care can be given that business which was formerly handled by the company when it operated its No. 2 plant.

Suggest Golf Match

Eastern pottery salesmen and jobbers, export dealers and export sales-

men have been quite active in the game of golf for some years, and they know of the high calibre of the golfers in the East Liverpool pottery trade. What's wrong with having a match game being arranged between the golfers in the local pottery trade and those identified with the business in the New York district.

Be it remembered that the East Liverpool pottery trade has among its members, golfers of no mean ability. Some of these players have given several of the most widely advertised golfers in the country a very close run for their money, and even if they did not carry off high honors it was nothing to their discredit.

Should the golfers in the eastern trade find it agreeable to entertain the East Liverpool pottery golfers the latter would immediately arrange to entertain the former in this district.

Such a match might be arranged this fall. The players would have a very pleasant holiday and at the same time create a very happy situation, that could be continued from year to year.

Why not now?

To Resume Wage Conference

Discussions will continue Friday, August 6, between the Labor committee of the United States Pottery Association and the conference committee of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters relative to the reopening of the present wage scale. Two conferences have already been held by these committees.

Salesmen do Less Traveling

During the last two years domestic pottery salesmen have done less traveling and business soliciting than ever before. Instead of salesmen seeking new business, buyers have been flocking into the market seeking merchandise. The year salesmen have not been on the road seeking business, although some of them have made trips over their different territories, without samples and for the sole purpose of keeping in touch with the trade.

Suffers Poultry Loss

George McNicol, manager of the decorating department of the Pottery Co. Operative Co., a lover of poultry, recently lost 69 of his flock in one night. "Something got 'em," said Mr. McNicol. He had planned to have a large flock of pullets for winter laying and the stock was coming along fine until that "something" got into his poultry house and played havoc. Others living in the vicinity of Mr. McNicol's home on the Lincoln Highway have reported similar losses.

Mullins, head of the Salem Body Corporation of Salem, added $10,000 to the fund in keeping with a promise made at the outset of the drive that he would give that amount if the city's quota was realized.

G. O. P. NOMINEE

E. B. Cappeller, publisher of the Mansfield News, in an introductory speech that preceded Senator Harding's address, said:

"Senator Harding, to me has been delegated today the pleasant duty of formally extending to you greetings from the Republicans of Richland county. Richland county approves without qualification the selection made at the Chicago convention and approaches the national campaign with every confidence of your election.

"As Republicans we are here today in large numbers from your neighboring county and we are able to say to you that in this visiting delegation there are many Democrats who intend to support you at the polls and that we have left behind, also, hundreds of other Richland county Democrats whose votes you will likewise receive.

"We are here today not only as Republicans interested in your candidacy but as friends, also, and neighbors. It was Richland county on the one side and Crawford county on the other, as you will recall, that were the first seriously impressed with your fitness for the United States senate and having long since demonstrated that its analysis was correct, it is happy also to have been among those who from the first too advocated your selection as the logical candidate for the office of president of the republic.

"As neighbors we have watched with satisfaction the developments of the republic's confidence in you. We know it is not misplaced and now we are profoundly sure that when the reins of government shall have been given to you, the American people will be served wisely and well.

"In Richland county we are impressed with your constant sincerity of purpose. As intimate neighbors we know that you have never placed selfish personal ambitions above duty to your state or nation. It may seem strange to have it said, but there are those among us in Richland county who are of the opinion that one of the most impressive speeches you ever made was to a handful of people in Johnsville, near the place of your birth in Morrow county, early one beautiful morning when you were the candidate for the nomination of United States senator. In the little grove of the village square, standing among those who had known you from boyhood, you asked their support at the primary 'only if they sincerely felt you were best qualified to render to them if elected a conscientious and intelligent service.'

"The statement was typical of your entire public life. It rang true and standing with uplifted hands, looking straight into the eyes of old associates and friends there could be no doubt of your sincerity.

"At Chicago, Senator Harding, the boys and girls, representing the rank and file of the Republican party, nominated you for the great office of president. In November, the boys and girls themselves, making up the great rank and file of the voters of this nation are going to elect you. They are going to elect you because they recognize in you one who will best safeguard our national rights, as one who will protect our American industries and afford American labor ample and profitable employment, as one who will give us an American merchant marine, as one who will influence a comprehensive and economical administration of our public affairs and as one above all else who understands our national needs; as one who rose himself after close personal contact with the common people and who understands at first hand their ambitions and hopes. Richland county asks no greater privilege than serving as citizens only in the world's grandest republic under such safe guidance as you can give."

COX TO KEEP 'CARD IN HOLE' ON ACCEPTANCE

Democratic Nominee to Withhold Portion of Speech Until Aug. 7.

ADDRESS ALMOST READY Governor Plans "Surprise" At Notification Ceremony At Dayton.

BY HARRY L. RODGERS

DAYTON, July 31.—Elated with the success of the homecoming demonstration in his honor yesterday, Governor Cox today entered upon the final lap of work upon his speech of acceptance, and was positive that the finishing touches would be given before 6 o'clock tonight.

The governor expected to give the final word, "print off," to the press foreman of his newspaper, the Dayton "News," just before dinner time, which means the damp copies from the press will be turned over to the press associations before 7 o'clock to press for mailing to newspapers throughout the country.

One portion of the governor's speech of acceptance, however, is being withheld. It is the "surprise" which is awaited with expectant interest by thousands throughout the United States. For weeks, it has been rumored that the governor, with a true sense of publicity values, would "keep a card in the hole" until the last moment, and would play this card at a time when it could do the utmost good for his cause.

This rumor was given additional confirmation today when the governor reiterated that the most important part of his speech, to be delivered on official notification day, August 7, would not be released to the newspapers until the morning of delivery.

Just what this particular portion of the speech will deal with has not been intimated even remotely, but it is expected to form the real keynote of the governor's chief campaign utterance.

That it will not deal with the prohibition question is taken for granted, in view of the governor's statement that nothing in his forthcoming address could be interpreted as "intended as a reply to the telegram from Richmond Pearson Hobson," inquiring as to Governor Cox's stand on enforcement of the Volstead act.

WARSAW, July 31.—The Polish cabinet and the Anglo-French mission were in conference throughout the night preparing measures to be taken in event the Russians refuse to sign the armistice protocol.

The press announced that extreme steps are contemplated.

LONDON, July 31.—Although the Polish armistice envoys are reported to have crossed the Russo-Polish lines last night and active negotiations for a truce were to begin this morning, official dispatches to the British government indicated that the Russian soviet troops were pressing their attacks with violence along the entire Polish frontier.

The Russians are reported to have taken Lomza, 75 miles northeast of Warsaw. If it is confirmed this seizure would constitute a direct attack upon Polish territorial integrity. The allies have already warned soviet Russia of the serious consequences of invading the Polish territory inside the demarcation line.

Up to noon the foreign office and the war office had received no official news of the opening of the actual armistice negotiations between the Polish and Russian delegates either at Baranovitchi or Brest-Litovsk.

A note from the Italian government regarding the Russian situation is on the way to London. It is understood that Italy has pledged herself to conform with the Anglo-French decision on the conditions Russia must accept to enter a general parity at London.

DISORDERS AT PIER WHEN PRELATE SAILS

NEW YORK, July 31.—Disorder broke out at the White Star pier at noon today when Archbishop Mangin of Melbourne, boarded the liner Baltic to sail for Ireland. An enormous crowd had gathered and the prelate was both cheered and booed for his recent utterances on the Irish political situation. The crew of the liner had taken sides on the matter and some of them declared they would not work if the archbishop was on board.

CLUBS, BRICKS USED IN FIGHT

Teamster and Switch Foreman Clash Over Ownership of Lumber.

Clubs and bricks figured prominently in an encounter on the Horn Switch, near Dresden avenue, shortly after 9 o'clock Saturday morning, which terminated in the arrest of C. C. Wells, driver for the D. E. McNicol Pottery company and Louis Jannozzo, switch foreman for the Pennsylvania railroad company.

Wells and Jannozzo disagreed over the ownership of a pile of lumber. When mere words failed to carry their meaning, the two resorted to sterner means to win their point. Wells wielded a brick with disastrous effect and Jannozzo brought a hefty club into play.

In a bloody condition, the two men were arrested by Patrolman Norman McFarland. They posted bond for their appearance before Mayor J. S. Wilson Sunday afternoon.

BELIEVE TRUNK MURDER VICTIM IS OHIOAN

CANTON, July 31.—Mrs. Anna Sprunk of West Brookfield, 10 miles from here, believes that the woman whose mutilated body was found in a trunk in New York some time ago may have been her daughter, Mrs. Laura Vandace, whose last known residence was 2415 Bridge street, Cleveland, O.

A fear that it might be her daughter's body caused Mrs. Sprunk to wire Police Chief Caldwell of Cleveland asking if the body had a brown mark on the face under the right eye.

Upon receiving an affirmative answer today Mrs. Sprunk made immediate preparations to leave for Detroit in an effort to identify the corpse, which, from pictures published in the papers, she believes to be her daughter.

Marion took on a gala aspect reminiscent of the great gathering which so completely transformed it on the occasion of Senator Harding's delivery recently of his speech of acceptance.

It was another great day in Marion's history, and marked the real beginning, it was said, of the front porch campaign Senator Harding is to wage in earnest here from now on irrespective of whatever mass meetings he may decide to address later on in other parts of the country.

CARROLLTON TO EAST LIVERPOOL ROAD ASSURED

Decision Reached At Public Hearing At Lisbon.

ARGUMENTS ARE HEARD

No Opposition to Wellsville-Highlandtown-Salineville Road Improvement.

BY M. K. ZIMMERMAN

LISBON, July 31.—Carrollton and East Liverpool will be joined by an improved highway within the next few years as a result of the State Highway Department conducting a hearing here Friday. Deputy State Highway Commissioner Charles Ash heard arguments favoring the improvement of the Wellsville-Highlandtown-Salineville road. No voice was raised in opposition to this proposed improvement. The completion of the road will open an extensive farming community which is now closed to an improved highway.

Carroll county is interested in this new route as the county commissioners of Carroll plan to build up to the Carroll-Columbiana county line.

When no opposition was presented to the improvement of this road, Mr. Ash closed the hearing which was held in Court Room No. 2 and went into court Room No. 2 where there was some real fire works.

Personalities were injected into the hearing, and the four women who were there as boosters for the Sprucevale route for the East Liverpool-Youngstown road rather enjoyed the novelty.

When this road hearing was taken up by Mr. Ash, he announced that he would first hear from those who favored the changing of the route from the Sprucevale road to the "Bell School" route. He made it clear, however, that he had made a trip over both routes and that it was his candid opinion that "it looks like an engineering problem solely, and over the route where best grades are obtainable."

Attorney Jason H. Brooks of East Liverpool who represented interests favorable to the Bell School route, presented a lengthy argument in behalf of that road. "We in East Liverpool desire the very best road that can be built from every point of view," said Mr. Brooks. "There are only three county roads we can ever hope to be interested in—the Lincoln Highway, the Wellsville-Salineville road and the East Liverpool-Youngstown road."

He then called attention to the report of County Engineer Herman C. Armstrong that a seven and one-half percent grade was the heaviest on the Bell School route, while on the Sprucevale route the grade soared to nine and eight-tenths percent. It was also explained that there was only a difference of 60 feet in the length of the two routes, and this was in favor of the Bell School road, and that the latter road would cost the taxpayers $40,000 less to build than the Sprucevale road.

"That's a very good presentation," commented Mr. Ash as Mr. Brooks retired.

Immediately James Cope, aged 78 years, declared that "we have the only route. We don't understand this to be a Sunday school road or a road for visitors. We have a trade road and with a grade all the way from East Liverpool to the north of from four and one-half to five percent."

Here Attorney W. H. Spence, who had been retained to speak in favor of the California or "Cope Hollow" route argued in behalf of the Cope road.

Attorney W. S. Foulks of East Liverpool got into the argument and spoke in favor of the Sprucevale road. It was explained to Mr. Foulks that the "opposition" to the change of the Sprucevale route would be later given an opportunity to be heard.

Again Mr. Ash advised that the proposition would be considered wholly from an engineering standpoint.

Real life was injected into the hearing by William Green, a merchant of Rogers. He wanted to know "why Pete Milliron of East Liverpool always used the Sprucevale road, and a voice advised him that 'because there was none other at present.'"

"The county commissioners are hounded to death for roads," continued Mr. Green. "Build a road. You won't please all the people after any road is built, but build a road and build it quick."

"That's the right kind of sentiment" came from Mr. Ash.

When this hearing closed the question of improving the present traveled road in Wayne township from Lisbon to Salineville was opened. It has been proposed to put a new road through the center of the township. Surveys of both roads have been made.

Arguments for the improvement of the present highway waxed warm. Sentiment also developed for construction of a road over a new route.

"I'll go over both routes before I reach any conclusion," said Mr. Ash as he closed the hearing.

Charles Patterson, who lead the argument for the improvement of the present traveled road, and which extends past his farm, said that there was only one mile of improved highway in Wayne township out of 50 miles of roadway.

Bo's court rooms were crowded for the hearings on these three roads. Many were compelled to stand.

County Commissioners Patrick McNeil, John H. H. Cliffe and John F. Kerr of Salineville occupied seats with Mr. Ash. A stenographic report of the hearing was made.

Mr. Ash left for Lima where he had a road hearing scheduled for Saturday.

You can save from a third to a half of your fuel and have a much warmer home than ever before if you will install a CALORIC.

The CALORIC is the remarkable furnace that heats without pipes, through only one register. It circulates heat by Nature's own method, forcing warm air up into the entire house and drawing cool air down into the furnace to be reheated and purified.

The CALORIC heats practically all types of homes, bungalow or three-story house, up to eighteen rooms. It keeps kitchens and back bedrooms just as comfortable and warm as the rest of the house. Also heats churches, factories, stores and other business buildings. More than 50,000 already installed.

The CALORIC can be installed in new or old houses—no cutting of walls for pipes and no interference with present system of heating. It burns coal, coke, gas, wood or lignite, and saves from one-third to one-half the fuel.

LAST CHANCE TO REGISTER

Electors who have just become of age, or who will reach their majority before November 2, the date of the general election, or persons over 21 years of age who did not register for or since the presidential election in 1916, must qualify today if they expect to vote at the primaries on Tuesday, August 10.

Today is the last chance to register. Registration booths will be open until 10 o'clock tonight for the purpose of enrolling voters, issuing transfers to electors who have removed since the last election, and also to correct any errors in registration.

Reports indicate that comparatively few names were added to the registration books Friday, the first day of registration for the primaries. And although almost 5,000 persons are enrolled on the election board's list for East Liverpool, it is believed there are several hundred male citizens over 21 years of age who are not registered.

American citizenship carries a responsibility as well as a duty and a privilege. The law has provided the primary system for the selection of candidates for state, district, county and city offices. And nomination in many instances is equivalent to election. So it is especially important that the electors interested in the naming of qualified men—men who will give strength to the party ticket in the general election—participate in the primaries. Home pride also should be an incentive for more concern in the selection of nominees, and this applies to every section of Columbiana county, for practically every community is represented by an aspirant for nomination at the August 10 election.

In East Liverpool, the right to have a voice in the selection of candidates will be sacrificed unless the elector is registered. If you are 21 years of age, or will be 21 before November 2, enroll before 10 o'clock tonight.

THE BILL-POSTERS' DEFENSE

The bill-posters are indignant at a criticism of their business which was made last May by Joseph Pennel, and which has received much attention. R. W. Scott of the International Alliance of Bill Posters and Billers says:

"I believe that this attack was nothing more than an attempt to claim superiority for the painter who is an artist over the painter who is not. It is an attempt to drive out of existence a business that is as necessary to the business world as advertising itself.

"Billboards and bill posters perform a real service to any community by enabling a merchant to tell the public about his wares in a way that he cannot do through any other medium of publicity.

"Artists and art leagues made no complaint when the government employed the services of billboards to raise money to carry on the war. Bill-posting agencies were then thanked for their part in publicity work for the Liberty Loan and Red Cross drives. Why should they be attacked now?

"As for the esthetic side of the matter, I should like to ask Mr. Pennel which he considers uglier, an empty lot overgrown with weeds and littered with tin cans and other rubbish, or the same lot surrounded by a wall of neatly painted billboards."

These arguments are quoted in fairness to the billboard men. It is evident that there is something to be said for their side of the case. They did admirable service during the war, in co-operation with the government, and no doubt they operate as conscientiously as the average business, right along, according to their lights. But their lights are naturally somewhat obscured by self-interest, and there is an evident lack of understanding of what critics like Mr. Pennel are driving at.

To most people, excepting artistic Bolsheviks, there is nothing heinous in the claim of "superiority for the painter who is an artist over the painter who is not." This is the chief point at issue. The ordinary billboard painter is not an artist. If he were, there would be less objection to flaunting his masterpieces in the public eye. The effective posters used in the Liberty Loan and Red Cross campaigns were done by real artists, and so had other than patriotic reasons for approval.

As for publicity, it is really true that the billboard is a necessary medium? A newspaper arguing otherwise may be accused of self-interest; and yet are not the newspaper and the magazine, rather than the landscape, the natural mediums for commercial advertising? What can be accomplished on a billboard that cannot be accomplished on a printed page? And a printed page, indoors, spoils no scenery.

The weeds-and-tin-can argument is more convincing. Yet is there not a fallacy even there? Whether billboards are better or worse than weeds and tin cans probably depends on the billboards. But why have either.

ELECTRICAL ACCIDENTS

An anxious grown-up writes a newspaper electrical department that the boy in the family, together with his young friends, has been making electrical devices, and asks if it is safe. The writer says in reply that if the boys restrict their experiments to low voltage devices which may be used in connection with dry batteries or storage batteries, no harm is probable.

But they should not be permitted to experiment, except under proper supervision, with devices used on 110-volt circuits, such as are used for lighting the home. There is great danger in this case of short circuits with burns and shocks as a by-product. Moreover, the use of home-made devices in connection with the lighting circuits is in most cities a violation of insurance provisions and city codes. Statistics show, says this authority, that the majority of accidents and fires traceable to electrical causes are the result of inept work of amateurs.

Let the boy use his own dry and storage batteries, then, and learn all he can while amusing himself. But give him strict orders and a formidable warning about plugging into the light socket.

When a man tells you he couldn't live on less than $5,000 a year, just remind him of the government report that 103,000,000 people are living on family incomes of less than $2,000 a year.

NEW YORK LETTER

By O. O. McINTYRE.

NEW YORK, July 31.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys. I up, having lain with G. Buck, the lyric writer, in his seashore place and trimmed myself. Then to the city where all morning at my labors. At the depot I directed a merry gentleman to his inn and it proved to be the father of my old school fellow, T. Howard.

This day at lunch I did meet Sir Thomas Lipton, the tea merchant, and a pleasant gentleman bravely tanned he is. Came my she-seizes greatly distressed over a trick of a profiteering landlord and I sought him out and we had high words and he threatened to come me but nothing came of it.

To a theatrical office and a young girl there danced a hooah, shivering as with ague, yet she is paid a noble wage for such silliness. R. Hitchcock, newly come to town, there too and made some brave quips and all in high glee. Thence to my bank and find myself again in low estate and my expenses mounting very fast. What I shall do I do not know.

In the evening with my wife, poor wretch, to seek a dinner place and in the park H. Doherty in his benzine buggy hailed us and all to dinner, an expensive one, but luckily I was called to the telephone at the reckoning. Walked home in the moon shine and saw many sleeping on the benches in the park, which is a pity, some being old women. And so to bed.

A brusque theatrical manager whose uncouth manners are well known along the Rialto was in his office the other day after lunch. His feet were on top of his desk, his coat off, hat on and a black cigar tilting upward from his lips.

A very pretty young girl came in unannounced looking for a job. She gave the immediate impression of gentleness and culture. As she talked her refinement evidently impressed the manager who had not moved.

Finally, as though a fine thought had struck him, he said: "I beg pardon, young lady, but do you mind if I remove your hat?"

A Fifth avenue club man who was known as a gay old dog in his day, but who finally found he couldn't keep up the pace, is now living on a quiet farm over in New Jersey. He putters around as much as his gout will permit him during the day and when evening comes he sits in a big rocking chair out on a veranda. It is a very lonesome spot and some old cronies out motoring dropped into see him one night recently. They could not help but compare his simple life with the hazy days that were gone.

"Don't you get mighty lonesome out here, old top?" one inquired.

"O no!" was the reply. "I don't mind it. In the evening I sit out in this chair and in the absolute quiet I listen to the hardening of the arteries."

One of the aesthetic magazines has a young editor whose horn rimmed glasses accentuate his pallid features. He is severely studious. At one of the university clubs he was a luncheon guest last week. A self-made type sat next to him. Afterward a friend said to him: "What do you think of our young editor?"

"Nice fellow," he said. "But he hasn't knocked about much. I don't believe he has ever been west of Harvard."

Harry Leon Wilson writes from California that he has taken up horse-back riding. He likes it very much. "There is one strange thing, however," he adds. "I have found that almost every riding horse has several galls. Unfortunately I have only one. Mine is a gallop."

About Digestion.

Digestion begins in the mouth. The food should be thoroughly masticated and insalivated before it is swallowed. When this is habitually neglected stomach trouble is almost sure to follow. If you now have indigestion eat no beef or veal and sparingly of other meats, masticate your food thoroughly and you may recover without taking any medicine. If your bowels are constipated take Chamberlain's Tablets.

They not only cause a gentle movement of the bowels, but aid digestion and strengthen the stomach.

The hand grenade was the earliest form of the modern explosive shell.

LETTER OF APPRECIATION SENT TO CARMEN

In a communication which has been addressed to the officers of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, Division No. 52 of East Liverpool, representatives of the four Protestant churches of Chester, who have been holding Sunday evening services in the open lot adjoining the I. O. O. F. K. of P. building, Carolina avenue, have extended a vote of thanks to the street car employees for "making as little commotion and noise as possible while operating cars within the zone of our meeting place."

The committee, Saturday, issued a request to automobile owners that no car horns be used or other unnecessary noise caused while operating past the lot while meetings are in progress. The communication which has been sent to the street car employees organization is as follows:

"To the Motormen and Conductors of the Street Car Lines Operating in Chester:

"We have noted with sincere gratification the evident endeavor on your part to assist our Sabbath evening Union Services, by making as little commotion and noise as possible, while operating cars within the zone of our meeting place."

"We appreciate the spirit which you are manifesting, and wish to thank you for this courteous consideration. Such a spirit of co-operation goes far toward making this a better town, and a better place in which to live."

"Most Sincerely Yours, Committee."

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN VIRGINIA DEBT CASE

Another chapter in the settlement of the Virginia debt case was written into the records at Charleston, Friday, when representatives of the Virginia Debt Commission of Virginia, appeared before the West Virginia state board of public works to secure the release by this state of $1,132,500 worth of Virginia debt bonds, held in escrow by this state pending the establishment of ownership and production of the debt certificates they represent.

The proofs of ownership were presented to the Board of Public Works, which met in special sessions to hear the case of Col. Joseph Button, insurance commissioner of Virginia, and secretary of the Virginia Debt Commission since its creation, and Maj. D. E. Williams, who also represented the Virginia commission.

When the settlement was made with Virginia by West Virginia, there were certain of the original Virginia debt certificates representing a part of the debt which had been lost, and it was agreed that West Virginia should hold the $1,132,500 worth of bonds in escrow, and in the event the certificates should not be produced that amount of the bonds never would be turned over by this state.

Col. Button, secretary of the Virginia Debt Commission throughout the long-drawn-out controversy, was awarded $50,000 compensation a few weeks ago for his services.

Two Weddings Here.

Rev. Grant Ward, pastor of the First Christian church of Chester, officiated at two wedding ceremonies this week, he announced Saturday morning.

Early this week, Frederick Campbell of Midland and Miss Margaret Laughlin of Georgetown were married at the church parsonage in Indiana avenue.

The marriage of Joseph M. Stacey and Miss Thelma Wilson, both of East Liverpool, occurred at the parsonage Friday.

WEIRTON FOREIGNER RELEASED ON BOND

Samuel Glaino of Weirton was the second man to be tried before the newly appointed United States commissioner, John H. Conrad of Wheeling. Glaino was given a trial at 6 o'clock Friday night.

At the time, Deputy U. S. Marshal Short was on his way from Steubenville and in the car happened to meet Bert Phillips, the state prohibition officer. Glaino was in the car and when he started to leave the officers heard a suspicious clink when he lifted his grip.

They searched the valise and found eight quarts of liquor. Glaino claims he bought it in the Union depot at Pittsburgh for ten dollars.

Chief Brooks, of the Weirton police, took the prisoner to Wheeling, and he was released on a bond of $300, signed by Mike Lamonia of Weirton.

FINED FOR FAILURE TO BLOW AUTO HORN

After being exonerated on the charge of fast and reckless driving, Charles Davis, Jr., an ex-convict man, was fined, for failing to blow his horn at a street crossing when arraigned before Mayor Mayhew, Friday evening. This is the first police court case in which the accused has demanded a trial since Mayor Mayhew assumed the reins of office.

Young Davis was arrested in the upper end of town Thursday evening by Special Police Officer Andrew Blair, who filed charges against the young man for speeding and also for failing to blow his horn at the street intersection.

At the trial the accused and a companion testified that he was not driving more than 15 miles an hour, although Officer Blair declared that he was traveling no less than 25 miles per hour. Young Davis, in answering to the charge of failing to blow his horn, stated that he had sounded the horn "some place along Phoenix avenue."

HEAVY TRUCK GOES THROUGH BARN FLOOR

A heavily loaded automobile truck, said to belong to a man by the name of Cheney of East Liverpool, went through the floor of the old Arner livery barn, now owned by the Chester China company, Friday afternoon.

The truck, loaded with ware from the Homer Laughlin China company plant, had been backed into the building from the Carolina avenue entrance. The weight of the truck was too much for the floor to stand, the back wheels crashing through. The body of the machine kept the entire truck from dropping into the basement of the building, where several head of horses are stabled.

The building is owned by Clarence Montgomery, head of the Chester China company, who conducts a pottery decorating establishment.

HOT MILLS SUSPEND WORK EARLY TODAY

The hot mill department of the local tin mill was forced to suspend operations shortly after the midnight turn began work Saturday morning when the present supply of steel gave out. Unless there is a large shipment of steel delivered tonight the mill will not resume Sunday night or Monday morning.

During the present week, eighteen carloads of raw steel were disposed of, which is said to be a new record for the local plant. Had the plant been able to work all week, it is asserted that no less than 20 carloads of the raw material would have been used.

ENUMERATORS MISSED 3,000 IN WHEELING

The test census conducted in Wheeling under the direction of the Wheeling chamber of commerce which has just been concluded shows the gratifying result that over 3,000 residents of the Fourth, Sixth and Eighth wards were not registered by the government enumerators.

It was found that an entire precinct containing 900 residents had not been included in the government figures.

The figures obtained in the test census have been taken to Washington, D. C., by H. P. Corcoran, manager of the chamber, and these will be compared with the figures of the census bureau. Mr. Corcoran is confident he can induce the federal officials to authorize another census of Wheeling in several districts at least.

By FRANK DALLAM

IN this year of grace 1920, an era of revolution, an epoch of general insurgency, a harvest time of tradition turned topsy-turvy, there has come within the last two or three weeks the most amazing of all reforms. It is a rebellion which men and women of superlatively fanciful mind never dreamed of. The whole thing is perplexing, puzzling, baffling. As the celebrated mystery-monger of Baker street might have observed to his equally celebrated collaborator, Watson: "What do you make of this, doctor? Men and women have actually risen in protest against the extreme styles of sleazy, abbreviated, truncated, perforated, amputated gowns and frocks now prevailing."

As a matter of fact, the entire world has risen in protest against—oh, well, you can't possibly be shocked after all you've been looking at recently if the homely, old-fashioned Saturday night bathtub word is used—against nakedness. There's the naked truth about this newest revolution. In short, the world and his wife have about reached the conviction that the utmost end of the limit has been achieved in the proposition of sparse raiment for women.

This is a condition worth a little study. Why should it be? Of course, there are a lot of men with no poetry in their hearts and no eye for beauty in their heads who will say: "Well, it is about time they reached the limit," and there are some women of acid mind, bitter mein and vinegarish tongue who will say: "The brazen hussies! Thank heavens, I never wore anything like some of the terrible costumes I've seen in public."

But that is not the point. The big idea in this insurrection a la mode, as one might call it, is, HOW and WHY did the women who started this vogue of highly ventilated garb come to be a factor in the ending of it? To recap, 'tis a query meriting research.

Of a truth, for a couple of years or more, the man who has walked down the main thoroughfare of any one of 200 or more cities you might care to mention, the poor man has been reduced to the jaded and blasé frame of mind afflicting the London bus conductor whose fat fare was slowly and timidly laboring her way down the steps from the top of the vehicle. "Urry up, na'am," he ordered testily, "legs ain't no treat to me."

Ordered Out of Church

Here and there from publicists, preachers, uplifters and reformers in these cities there came occasional remonstrances about the trend of fashions, but no one paid any particular attention. However, audacious femininity carried the fad so far in her daring that a witty woman I know remarked the other day that clothes had become "positively indecent—so shocking a woman can't get married in them and she even can't get a divorce in them."

Her gloomy conclusions, though lighted by the spark of epigram, were based upon the surprising action of a New Orleans priest of the Catholic church in turning away from the Cathedral door a young girl come to be married; and upon the succinct words of an Ohio judge who fired a fair plaintiff in a divorce action, with about half of the more or less petticoated spectators, from his courtroom until they could go home and insert themselves in a few more layers of skirts and camisoles.

Although the Catholic church has ever been watchful against the faintest suggestion of immodesty in ultra designs, the decision of the New Orleans rector was both drastic and unexpected. Fr. Antoine of the historic St. Louis cathedral, down in the picturesque Vieux Carre of the city, it was who in ecclesiastical indignation at the apparel of the bride-elect bade her begone until she could return properly clad to approach the altar. Embarrassing scene and dramatic—one might almost say melodramatic—after the formulae of the old feverish Theodore Kremer thrillers.

There was the expectant bride-to-be; the bridegroom was waiting in the chancel; the wedding guests were assembled, all supposedly good church people. Now it must be understood that Archbishop Shaw of New Orleans had issued a short time previously strong instructions to the rectors and pastors of his diocese as to what styles of women's clothes would be permissible in the churches. These instructions were duly read in all the parishes and it would seem as though the young woman about to be married must have known all about the regulations. When she was on the point of moving for the altar on the arm of her father a shaft of light suddenly revealed the airy quality of the gown she wore. Immediately Fr. Antoine spoke a few hurried words to the girl, ordered the sexton to put out the lights and retired to the sacristy.

"I think that something should be done to warn others," said Fr. Antoine later in discussing the affair. "This girl, the daughter of a wealthy parishioner, came to the church in such a dress that I was stunned. Above the waist line it was nothing but a piece of gauze. I had the lights turned out so that her shame might not be seen by everyone, and in the darkness I let her leave the church to go home and put on another gown in which she was wed at a subsequent hour. It was a warning to all Catholic women. Those who transgress will be treated likewise."

Fr. Antoine's action was succeeded speedily by that of Fr. Roth of St. Theresa's, who next day posted this notice in the vestibule of his church:

"Women who wear low-necked dresses or who wear sleeves so short as not to cover the elbow or who otherwise do not wear sufficient clothing may not enter the church."

He also asks women to refrain from dresses cut lower than the hollow of the throat and from tight skirts. He forbids transparent hosiery and all gossamer garments unless the transparency is nullified by an under piece.

So much for the reform in New Orleans. Further west, Phoenix, Ari., has felt the same influence. A notice signed by the rector appears on all four doors of St. Mary's Church in that city saying: "Entrance into this church is forbidden to all women wearing low-necked dresses."

In all the years that man has attempted to meddle with affairs of the opposite sex, especially in the procedure of regulating attire, he has succeeded only in being derided and ignored. But this time there is significance in the very eagerness with which the news of the New Orleans protest against nakedness was telegraphed far and wide and by the unanimity of opinion evoked by the discussion of it.

Other denominations than Catholic gave it unqualified indorsement. It was taken up in a meeting of Methodists in Chicago and a fervent amen was appended. The tendency of fashion was decried in the session of the Baptists in Buffalo. The Presbyterians are on record as against the flimsy apparel. And while no ex-cathedra pronouncement has come recently from the conservative Episcopalians, prominent leaders in the Church of England have thrown earnest pressure upon the dress crusade.

The Rev. H. J. Mathews, rector of the famous St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, in London, when asked what he thought of the New Orleans episode (all the London newspapers having printed full account of the affair) not only denounced the present immodesty of women's dresses but condemned all freaks of fashion.

"I should have done the same as Fr. Antoine myself," he said, "why come to church at all if one wishes deliberately to be immodest?"

Fr. Jarvis of the Church of St. Ethelreda, which is well known to American Catholics who have visited in London, added: "I am much pleased to see that Fr. Antoine acted so decisively."

What the Judge Said

Hard upon these expressions of disfavor from the church, comes the thunderous voice of the state, spoken through the medium of Judge Frank W. Geiger of the common pleas court of Springfield, Ohio. It is immaterial that the displeasure of the state was not garnished with the dignity of speech marking the anger of the church; the common end is attained.

According to the Springfield papers, Judge Geiger was hearing a divorce action. It was a warm day. The plaintiff came into chambers wearing a fetching costume which while perfectly correct according to the lights of the modiste, recalled to the men present the seven veils of Salome. An array of feminine friends trooped into the room and the judge's eyes blazed. The frocks of the friends were as porous as that of the principal in the case. No juryman in the land could have kept his mind on the fine points of law amid such scenery and the judge knew it. Maybe, he couldn't do it himself.

"Get out!" he gasped. "Go home! Heat it! I know it is a hot day and all that, but I don't care if it is hotter'n hades. More respect must be shown the state of Ohio. You women have got to wear more clothes when you come into this court. This thing of peek-a-boo waists and see-more skirts has got to stop."

The order was obeyed instantly. While his honor's words may not have been recorded in the judicial chronicles of Ohio, they nevertheless constitute a noteworthy example of the revulsion of sentiment against the fashions.

Reverting to the position of the churches on the dress question, and while touching on the subject of courts, it ought to be recalled that last spring while the Presbyterians were holding an important gathering in Philadelphia one afternoon, Elder Bryan of Lincoln, Neb., dropped into meetin' unexpectedly. Being called on for a few appropriate remarks he obliged. Among other things he said it was not at all improbable that at some not far distant period there would be written into the Constitution of the United States another amendment regulating morals and dress. When you pause to reflect that it was this same Elder Bryan who had quite a long finger in stirring up the 18th amendment, that Philadelphia prophecy takes on decided color.

In the interview with the Church of England rector, already referred to, the Rev. Fr. Mathews went on to say that this thing of short and thin skirts was "like many of the murders, suicides and robberies of today—all a result of the war. People are still out of proportion, so to speak. We are still morally off our balance."

The World-Wide Protest Against Nakedness

"Bade Her Begone Until She Could Return Properly Clad to Approach the Altar."

Another Modern Evening Gown Designed to Reveal the Wearer's Charming Shoulders and Back.

By FRANK DALLAM

IN this year of grace 1920, an era of revolution, an epoch of general insurgency, a harvest time of tradition turned topsy-turvy, there has come within the last two or three weeks the most amazing of all reforms. It is a rebellion which men and women of superlatively fanciful mind never dreamed of. The whole thing is perplexing, puzzling, baffling. As the celebrated mystery-monger of Baker street might have observed to his equally celebrated collaborator, Watson: "What do you make of this, doctor? Men and women have actually risen in protest against the extreme styles of sleazy, abbreviated, truncated, perforated, amputated gowns and frocks now prevailing."

As a matter of fact, the entire world has risen in protest against—oh, well, you can't possibly be shocked after all you've been looking at recently if the homely, old-fashioned Saturday night bathtub word is used—against nakedness. There's the naked truth about this newest revolution. In short, the world and his wife have about reached the conviction that the utmost end of the limit has been achieved in the proposition of sparse raiment for women.

This is a condition worth a little study. Why should it be? Of course, there are a lot of men with no poetry in their hearts and no eye for beauty in their heads who will say: "Well, it is about time they reached the limit," and there are some women of acid mind, bitter mein and vinegarish tongue who will say: "The brazen hussies! Thank heavens, I never wore anything like some of the terrible costumes I've seen in public."

But that is not the point. The big idea in this insurrection a la mode, as one might call it, is, HOW and WHY did the women who started this vogue of highly ventilated garb come to be a factor in the ending of it? To repeat, 'tis a query meriting research.

Of a truth, for a couple of years or more, the man who has walked down the main thoroughfare of any one of 200 or more cities you might care to mention, the poor man has been reduced to the jaded and blasé frame of mind afflicting the London bus conductor whose fat fare was slowly and timidly laboring her way down the steps from the top of the vehicle. "Urry up, na'am," he ordered testily, "legs ain't no treat to me."

MOLBROUGH A. C. OF WELLSVILLE, HERE SUNDAY; PLAYERS BACK

COLORED CLUB IS SET FOR CONTEST

Independents Enjoy More Confidence With Return of Ray Pollock and Bill Merchant; Both Will Play Sunday.

Reinforced by the addition of two former members of the club, who for a time were sojourning in Florida, the East Liverpool Independents are feeling a whole lot more confident over their game with the Molbrough A. C. of Wellsville, carded for Sunday, than they were a week ago.

Ray Pollock, former pitcher for the Independents and William Merchant, first baseman, who according to a telegram received by Manager Shel 17, a couple of days ago, are due to arrive in East Liverpool today from Florida where they were playing with the Orlando club in the state league. Whether or not Pollock will be sent to the mound immediately, to head off the attack of the Wellsville colored aggregation, or whether he will be given a rest will be decided by Pyle today.

The Molbrough aggregation, according to Dame Rumor, is very much loaded up for the Sunday engagement here. The Wellsville tossers were after the services of a pitcher and a catcher from the Homestead Grays, of Homestead, Pa., for this game but whether or not they secured their services is problematical.

Star for a day—Hed Eller.

The crack Cincinnati pitcher not only shutout the Dodgers with six hits but contributed largely to the scoring of the 11 runs made by his team-mates. The former shine ball expert only made four hits in four times up—a triple, a double and two singles.

Cincinnati and Brooklyn are now tied for the leadership of the National League.

No stopping the "galloping" Giants now. The New York team made a clean sweep of their series with the St. Louis Cardinals and moved into third place when Philadelphia trounced Pittsburgh.

"Murderers row" of the New York Yankees went off on a batting rampage against the St. Louis Browns, lacing out 21 hits for 19 runs. Babe Ruth made a home run, running his total up to 35 for the season.

This Speaker's clan took kindly to the offerings of two Boston pitchers and the Cleveland team won handily 13 to 4. This was the third successive Cleveland win over Boston.

Amos Strunk showed he still has his old-time punch although released to the Chicago White Sox by the Philadelphia A's. His double in the tenth enabled Chicago to defeat his former team-mates 6 to 5.

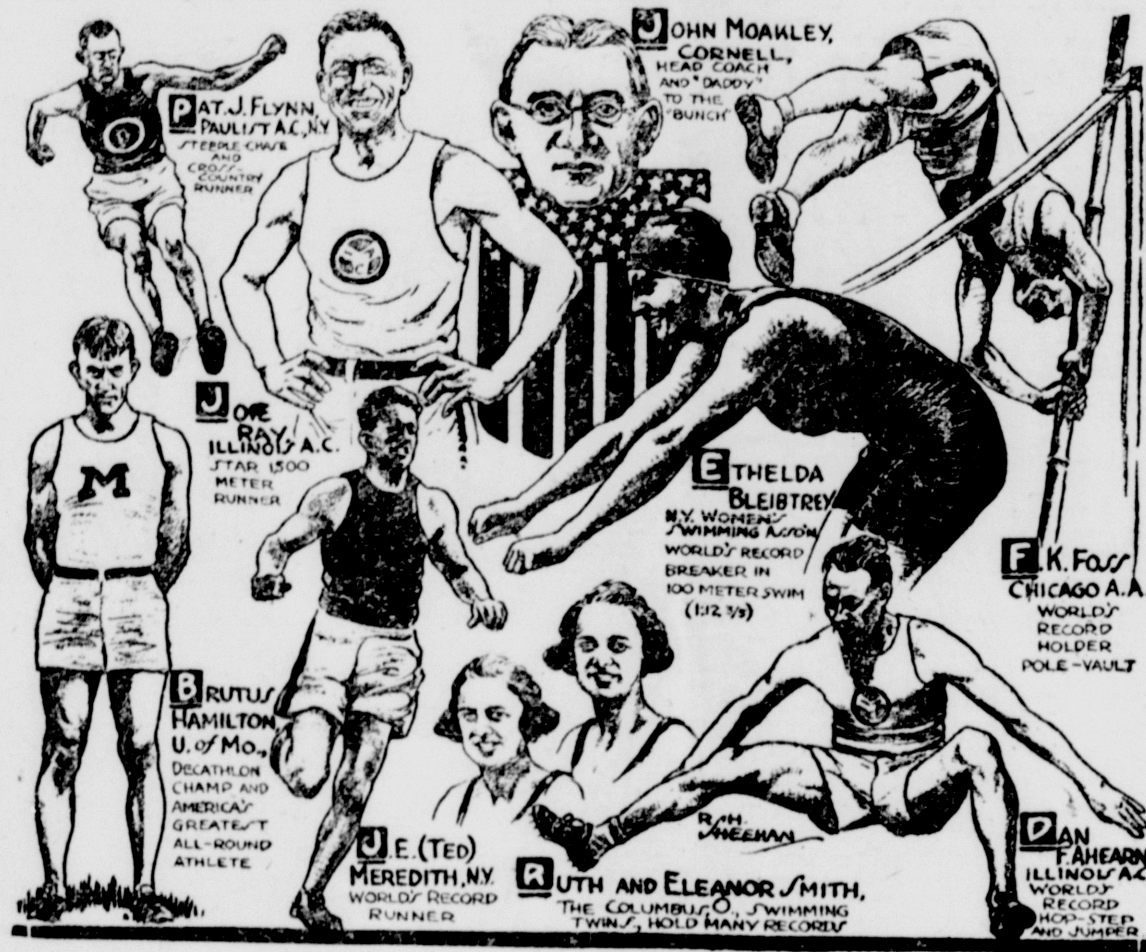

Even with Ty Cobb still out of the lineup, Detroit managed to defeat Washington 8 to 4. The batting of Heinman and Veach featured the Tiger victory.

UNCLE SAM'S STARS ARE SET TO BEAT WORLD IN OLYMPIC GAMES

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

Over one hundred athletes, rightly referred to as the cream of America's athletic stars, have been chosen to represent America in the major events of the Olympic games at Antwerp, Belgium, next month.

The experts who have chosen these boys and girls and mature men and women and those who have trained them into the "ink" believe that they will win out over the thirty other nations competing.

America has proved her supremacy before in the Olympiads and the quality of the contestants chosen this year gives her the edge in the seventh renewal of the games—the greatest international athletic contest staged.

Some of the events in the Olympiad have been decided already, a Boston girl winning one of the earlier events, the fancy skating contest. The hockey and other ice events were disposed of early in the spring. The main events, however, start the first of August, and practically each day from then on the huge stadium at Antwerp will be filled with spectators watching the athletes.

Some of America's competitors. Listed among the thirty nations against which America will compete are Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Finland, France, Great Britain, Greece, Holland, Italy, Japan, Jugoslavia, Luxembourg, Norway, New Zealand, Poland, Portugal, Roumania, Spain, South America, Sweden and Switzerland.

This army of over a hundred U. S. athletes, chosen after a series of try-outs, contains four world's record holders. They are Ted Meredith, D. F. Ahearn, F. K. Foss and Pat Ryan. Meredith and Pat McDonald, noted weight men, were members of the American Olympic team at Stockholm, in 1912. That the entire country was gleamed to obtain the best material is shown by the fact that of the ones chosen, 67 are from the east, 43 are from the middle west and 32 from the Pacific coast and far west. Six of the men are navy men and three are of the army.

America hopes once more to win the marathon race, the most highly prized track event. Carl Linder and Arthur Ross of Boston, Joseph Organ and Weber of Pittsburgh, Charles Mellor of Chicago, Frank Zona of Newark, N. J., and Edwin White of New York, are the men chosen to bring home victory in this event.

Amesoli Patsoni, diminutive Indian from Haskell Institute, Kansas, will be probably the most picturesque figure in the American team and although he is not counted on to star as did the famous Jim Thorpe, he may show his native ability for running and endurance by winning the ten thousand meter run.

Illinois Athlete to Star.

Joe Ray of the Illinois Athletic club, because of his wonderful running, is expected to be one of the stars of the games. Ray holds several records in the middle distance events.

Charles Hunter of San Francisco leaped to the front as a prospective star when he won the five thousand meter event in the recent Pacific coast tryouts and set a time only nine seconds slower than the world's record of 14:35. Hannes Kolehmainen set this record in the Stockholm games.

One disappointing feature of the tryouts for the team was the failure of Carl E. Johnson, famous University of Michigan athlete, to pass the severe tests required to make the team. Johnson before a recent severe illness had proved himself to be one of the greatest all-around athletes of the present day.

Other Nations Energetic.

That other nations, too, are making every effort to shine in the games is shown by the fact that King Alexander of Greece, the birthplace of the Olympic games, is taking upon himself much of the responsibility of turning out a team that will do honor to that ancient country. He personally arranged a large credit to pay the expenses of the athletes.

Holland and Belgium are taking extraordinary interest in the bicycling events. Belgium is noted for its number of bicycles. Holland's perfect roads give its athletes wonderful

DECIDING GAME OF SERIES TODAY

Newspapermen, Beaten In the First Game By Jobbers, Will Attempt Comeback at West End Today.

"Having decisively triumphed over their cheery newspaper opponents in the opening game at West End park last Saturday by a score of 11 to 7, the job men, under the leadership of Wilfred "Babe" Devon, are now occupying their leisure moments formulating a menu suitable to their own taste and capacities, which the newspapermen will be accorded the privilege of paying for when the series is over because the jobmen are just cocksure they've got their measure."

The above bit of news appeared in the Potters Herald following the defeat of the newspapermen's baseball team several weeks ago at West End park by the jobbers. Judging from the sentiment displayed therein the newspapermen are in for a terrific wallop at the hands of the victors of the initial contest.

Although the confidence of the newspapermen was slightly jolted it was not entirely upset by their beating and with several weeks in which to recuperate, has become normal again. Today's game to be played at West End park will be the second in the series for a banquet at stake. If the jobbers win, they will be tendered a free "feed." If they lose, honors will be even and a third game will be necessary to settle honors.

Davis will again be on the slab for the jobbers and has arranged a puzzling assortment of slants and twist-ers for the occasion. Davis allowed the newspapermen only five hits in the last game but his good fortune was due more to the timely fielding of his support than anything else.

Tuttle has been selected to oppose Davis on the hillcock. Tuttle was a non-combatant in the first game of the series but has offered his services in behalf of the newspapermen in this the crucial engagement.

The clubs will likely lineup as follows:

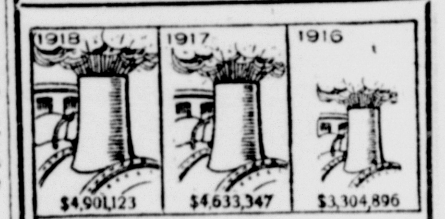

Jobbers: Winters, catcher; Davis, pitcher; Duffy, 1b; Blake, 2b; Brick, 3b; Devon, 3b; Gruber, 1b; McBane, mf; Betz, rf.

Newspapermen: Kinne, rf; Smith, 1b; Gill, 1b; Wise, catcher; Tuttle, pitcher; Shivers, mf; Kaufman, 1b; Daily, 3b; Altee, 2b; Coe m.

REGISTRATION BOOTHS

OPEN UNTIL 10 P. M.

Today is the last chance for electors wishing to vote at the August primaries to qualify. Registration booths will be open from 5 until 10 o'clock this evening. Only those who failed to register for the past presidential election or have not qualified are required to register.

The election board announced that a special session would be held on Saturday afternoon, August 4, from 2 to 4 o'clock, for the purpose of receiving applications for registration of voters who were ill or more than fifty miles from the city on the regular registration days. Those to whom certificates are issued will be registered in the voting precinct on the Monday before election day.

Baseball Game Postponed.

The baseball game scheduled between the Oakland Athletics and the Cord Tires of Chester was postponed on account of the poor condition of the ball field at Rock Springs park Friday evening.

It was announced by Manager Grafton of the East End aggregation that the game would probably be played off next week. This was to have been the second meeting of the two teams, the Oakland boys chalking up a win against their Chester rivals several weeks ago.

PLACE ORDER FOR FIELD MEET MEDALS

Miss Margaret Rice, play ground supervisor, has placed an order with Leon Rubin, East Liverpool Jeweler, for the gold, silver and bronze medals to be awarded the winners of the various events to be staged during the interplayground field and athletic meet to be staged at Columbiana park on August 4.

James Davis, director of the East End play ground, has enrolled 30 boys under the age of 16 to compete in the tournament. Ten events will be staged and each playground will be allowed three entries for each contest. Today is the last day for the boys who wish to compete to get their names on the roster.

Boy patrons of the East End lot were busy Friday making improvements on the track and baseball diamond. Several loads of cinders and dirt have been dumped on the grounds and will be used to level the race track and fill several mud holes left by the recent rain.

The girl's volley ball team of the East End is holding regular practice sessions each evening in preparation for the inter-city championship series against the girls of the Wellsville play grounds. The first game of the series will be played next week.

No Preaching Services.

Owing to the absence of Rev. J. M. Diehl, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, who, with his wife, is on his annual vacation, there will be no preaching services at the church on Sunday morning or evening. Sunday school sessions will be held at the usual hour.

Attorney F. M. Wells in Pulpit.

Attorney Frank Wells of Wellsville will occupy the pulpit at the Pennsylvania Avenue M. E. church at the morning services Sunday. Mr. Wells will submit a report to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church held early in the month. Evening services will be held as usual.

POLICE SEEK CHECK ARTIST

Stuebenville Business Men are Victimized When They Cash Worthless Paper.

Believed to be the same man who flooded East Liverpool business houses with bogus checks a few weeks ago, a smooth stranger who styles himself Charles F. Taylor is being sought by Stuebenville police. Taylor succeeded in passing a number of worthless checks drawn on the account of a Stuebenville lumber company. He left the city after securing cash for several drafts. Call has been sent out to police in surrounding cities to keep a sharp lookout for the man.

Grocery stores and meat markets here were victimized by a man working a similar game. Checks drawn upon the Finley Brothers' Lumber company of Chester for amounts ranging around $25 were passed here before the game was discovered.

A few days after the man operated here, Washington, Pa., police were notified of a similar check-passing game. A Washington lumber company was named in the bogus drafts.

Postmaster Considers Plan to Give Northside Delivery Service.

Re-districting of city mail routes in the downtown district to create sufficient territory on the Northside to warrant the establishment of a city carrier service is being considered by Postmaster M. E. Miskall, it was announced Saturday.

Between 1,500 and 1,700 patrons constitute an ordinary city carrier's route, Postmaster Miskall said. If the routes in the downtown district can be rearranged so as to bring the patrons of In medieval times fossils were believed to be deposits from heavenly bodies.

THE STORY OF A SOUL IN AGONY

Candace (played by GLADYS BROCKWELL) an innocent, pure-minded daughter of New England's hills, but in whose veins flowed the untamed blood of the witches of old Salem, found herself in a Chinese underground wine cellar in a remote Portuguese port, bereft of her honor and most of her clothing. She was suffering from an outrage which had almost turned her mind and was about to commit suicide by drinking poison when her hand was stayed by Craig Boardman, a stranded American, outcast of society.

Candace swore to have revenge on all men for her wrong, crying "I will wait at the gates of hell for the man who has brought me to this."

Boardman persuaded Candace to go with him. He took her to Paris to the home of Madame Binnat, ex-courtesan of the French city, who trained Candace in the ways of the world and turned out a finished product in Laure De Saxe, as the girl was then called. She became the toast of Paris, luring men by the witchery of her strange ways.

Laure, by a clever trick, won a unique jewel contest from her only rival, Suzette De Ponges. Men cast their fortunes at her feet but none touched her heart. She met Charles Eastcoat, younger brother of Bruce Eastcoat. Boardman told Laure of Charles' family wealth and ordered her to ensnare him.

Bruce Eastcoat loved his younger brother. In America he heard of Charles' infatuation for Laure and determined to save him from the clutches of this notorious woman. Bruce sailed for Paris and met Laure and Charles. Bruce told Boardman his purpose in coming to Paris.

The Pennsylvania Censor Board did not pass it on account of being too much sensational. Fortunately the Ohio Board did pass it.

Paris, and Boardman told him the only way to save his brother was to make love to Laure himself and win her from Charles. This Bruce refused to do, but agreed to a plan to take Laure away on a pretended honeymoon. Laure agreed and Charles threatened to kill Bruce—but was prevented by Laure. They went to the country home of Madame Binnat. Charles cabled Simon Eastcoat of his elder son's peril. Simon Eastcoat went to Paris and then to Madame Binnat's home where he found Bruce with Laure. In the meantime Laure and Bruce had fallen in love with each other. Simon confronted his son and told him that Laure was not fit to be his wife, but Bruce defended her. In a violent scene Laure told the elder Eastcoat that he was responsible for her ruin. She exposed him as the man for whom she was ready to "wait at the gates of Hell."

"Dad—is this true?" demanded Bruce. Simon admitted that it was true, and offered to marry Laure himself and right the wrong he did her. She scorned his offer, telling him it came five years too late.

Laure resolved to save Bruce, whom she loved, from himself. She gave a party and did everything possible to shock him and disgust him. A scene of wild debauchery ensued. But Bruce saw through the trick and again asked her to marry him.

Laure realized that Bruce could never find perfect happiness with a woman whose past had been so black as hers. She determined to sacrifice herself on the altar of love. She drank poisoned wine and died in the arms of the man who would have saved her from herself.

carrier will be assigned a route in that district.

Mr. Miskall was in Washington, D. C., conferring with postoffice authorities on the Northside situation. Residents of the suburb have been without mail service since April 30, when the branch office was abandoned. William E. Dunlap, St. Clair avenue, held the office of branch postmaster until April when he tendered his resignation.

Since the abandonment of the branch office, residents of the Northside, Beechwood and along Calcutta road have been receiving their mail at the general delivery window at the downtown postoffice.
